

2006 PEER ASSESSMENT OF COLLEGES AND UNIVERSITIES

Liberal Arts Colleges

Each year, U.S. News & World Report conducts a survey of undergraduate programs at colleges and universities. The results are used as part of the America's Best College rankings. A list of your peer institutions is listed below by state. This survey is being sent to the president, provost, and dean of admissions at each of these schools. Your participation in this survey is greatly appreciated.

Directions for Overall Ratings:

1. Please rate the academic quality of undergraduate programs at the following schools in the liberal arts colleges category. These schools are primarily undergraduate colleges that award fifty percent or more of their baccalaureate degrees in the liberal arts.
2. Please review the entire list first, considering each program's scholarship record, curriculum, and quality of faculty and graduates.
3. Using a black pen, rate each school with which you are familiar on a scale from marginal (1) to distinguished (5) by marking an "X" in the corresponding box. If you are not familiar with a school's faculty, programs, and graduates, please mark "don't know."
4. Separate instructions for nominating exemplary undergraduate programs in specialty areas are found on page 8.
5. Return the completed survey in the postage-paid return envelope to Synovate, Inc. (If you have misplaced the envelope, you may return the survey to Angela Foster-Woods, Synovate, 222 South Riverside Plaza, Suite 350, Chicago, IL 60606-5809.)

Any questions? Contact the America's Best Colleges, help desk at (800) 408-5365 or usnews@synovate.net. Thank you!

Exemplary Undergraduate Programs by Specialty – Programs to Look For

In this section, we ask you to nominate schools with exemplary undergraduate programs in each specialty. Please nominate up to 10 schools in each area by writing the identification codes for each school you select on the list below. (The identification code is found to the left of the school name on the accompanying booklet.) You may list your selections in any order and may select fewer than ten. Definitions for these specialty areas may be found on the next page, developed in cooperation with members of the Greater Expectations Consortium for Quality Education of the Association of American Colleges and Universities.

Undergraduate Program Definitions

First-year Experiences

Curricular and/or co-curricular programs beyond orientation that bring together faculty and/or staff and groups of first-year students to: address the development of knowledge, skills, and/or perspectives for academic and college success; promote meaningful student-faculty interaction (one-on-one or in small groups).

Learning Communities

Groups of students that take part as a cohort in intentional, institutionally-designed curricula, most often consisting of at least two linked courses, that are designed to address academic and social development inside and outside the classroom through planned interactions among the cohort and with the faculty.

Senior Capstone or Culminating Academic Experiences

Integrative, credit-bearing experiences, offered in the last stages of a student's program of studies, which aim to have the student synthesize the academic experience, often in the creation of a product that demonstrates the ability to frame and resolve an open-ended question, or of a performance or an exhibit.

Undergraduate Research/Creative Projects

Self-directed academic work by an individual student or by small groups of students that deals with an open-ended issue with the expectation of a substantial scholarly or creative product that can be formally presented on or off campus. Such work is undertaken with a faculty mentor for at least one academic term or intensive summer, and students understand their roles as researchers/creators and act in those roles.

Service Learning

An academically-based instructional strategy, credit-bearing or required for a degree, that provides students with both meaningful service opportunities in interactive partnership with the community and academic structures for analysis and reflection on their contributions and learning.

Study Abroad

Substantial academic, credit-bearing study, the equivalent of at least one full course, under faculty supervision, conducted outside the United States but approved by the home institution, which includes substantive interaction between the student and the host culture and/or environment.

Internships, Cooperative Education, or Practica

The practical application of learning from a specific academic program in a pre-planned out-of-class situation equivalent in time to at least 1 academic credit, paid or unpaid, requiring structured reflection and/or an end product, supervised and evaluated by faculty, field person, or cooperating professional directing the learning activity.

Writing in the Disciplines

Institutional commitment, manifest through an organized approach, to significant student participation in writing embedded in courses at all levels and in all divisions of the curriculum. To accomplish significant writing over time and at increasing levels of sophistication, it often includes writing experiences in many different disciplines, varied forms of writing for varied audiences, and iterative writing processes.
